Photoshop Elements is a free version of Photoshop for beginning and intermediate users. It has many of the same features as Photoshop, such as layers and filters. Photoshop Elements does not have a raster editor, so images are created in the Gimp, a freely available, open-source image editor. Additionally, Elements does not have the ability to alter layers containing raster images. Elements can edit JPEGs or PNGs and can use layers containing other layers to combine multiple images. (Visit the online photo editing community ExploreEd.) There are now many ways to edit photos online, using a variety of easy-to-use tools. Here are some options for the Photoshop user. 1. Multi-Touch Interface Adobe Photoshop Touch is a touch-based application for a Windows 10 tablet or a Windows Phone 8.1 app for iOS or Android. Touch allows users to manipulate a picture through the tablet's screen or smartphone screen, with controls such as zoom or color. It has a natural feel and interface. (Photoshop.com) A new edition of Photoshop Touch is available as part of a partnership with the Apple iPad. Currently there is an iOS version for the iPad and Android version for the Samsung Galaxy Tab S, but many other tablets and phones are also compatible with Touch. Adobe Photoshop Touch is free to use. There are limitations in the number of brushes, shapes and textures that are used, but most basic projects can be completed with this tool. This version of Photoshop doesn't have a raster editor, so images are created in the Gimp, a freely available, open-source image editor. Additionally, Elements does not have the ability to alter layers containing raster images. (Image: Touch) 2. Paint.net Paint.net is an application that allows users to edit raster images online. It can be downloaded from the site of the same name and from the Microsoft site. There is a free download. The program can be used on computers running Windows, Mac OS X or Linux, although the Windows version requires an evaluation period before it can be used. Microsoft discontinued support for Paint.net in May. Paint.net offers multiple ways to edit a photo. A new windows interface is available for the Mac, Linux and Windows versions. Paint.net on the Mac and Linux versions have a borderless window, while the Windows version has a border. The user interface is

The Legend of Zelda: Skyward Sword Release Date Revealed Zelda's next adventure is landing on Nintendo's home console! A new trailer for The Legend of Zelda: Skyward Sword has been released, giving fans a look at the console gameplay. The Zelda series has become a trademark of Nintendo, creating games for both Wii and the Nintendo DS. Players have grown up with the series, and now they're gearing up for Skyward Sword. The game will be released for the Wii U on Nov. 15, and has many great features. The Link Awakening is an augmented reality title that offers the Link's Awakening, and to go along with it, Skyward Sword offers the same game. Skyward Sword also offers a new overworld map that gives players more freedom to move around. The overworld offers more possible paths than in previous games, making this game fun and different than before. The game allows for online play, and uses the HD Rumble to enhance the game. What are your thoughts on the new gameplay trailer? A lot of people want to find out the release date for this game, and while Nintendo hasn't revealed it, the game does release on Nov. 15. Enjoy the new trailer below, and don't forget to pre-order your copy of Skyward Sword.

Q: Receiving broadcasts when my app is in background I'm having a problem when I want to receive broadcasts (NOT local broadcast) when my app is in the background. I've read a lot of SO questions regarding this issue but no one of them helped me. The case: I'm trying to receive a broadcast sent from a device location manager when the device is in the background. It's not the local broadcast which are sent for push notifications and other similar uses. This is my current code: `public static class BackgroundReceiver extends BroadcastReceiver { public static void MyBroadcast(Context context, String action, String message, long time_stamp) { Log.i("BroadcastReceiver", "MyBroadcast:" + action + " for " + context + " on " + time_stamp); } }` And I'm sending it from a button in a form, as the following: `IntentFilter filter = new IntentFilter(); filter.`
